

Gluteal and Genital Lesions with Intense Pruritus

Şiddetli Kaşıntılı Gluteal ve Genital Lezyonlar

İkbal Esen Aydıngöz<sup>1</sup>, Ayşe Tülin Mansur<sup>2</sup>

<sup>1</sup>Acıbadem Üniversitesi Tıp Fakültesi, Dermatoloji Anabilim Dalı, İstanbul, Türkiye

<sup>2</sup>Ahu Hetman Hastanesi, Dermatoloji Kliniği, Marmaris, Muğla, Türkiye

Figure 1.2. Erythematous serpiginous lesions at gluteal region and labium minus.

A 50-year-old woman complained of pruritic lesions found on her gluteus and genitalia which appeared one week ago, during her holiday in the Mediterranean region. Itching was severe especially at night hours.

Dermatologic examination revealed linear erythematous lesions with a serpiginous pattern on the gluteus and a yellowish delicate tract on the left labium minus advancing to introitus (Figure 1,2). The rest of the body and limbs were free of any lesions.

Past medical history and familial history were unremarkable. There was no significant finding in reviewing her systemic symptoms. She did not recall any injury.

See p.223 for the answer.